

Keep Your Cat from Being Lost

Summer parties lead to lots of open doors that could tempt a kitty to wander. Keep your cat safe by following the tips below!

1

Check that your cat's collar fits securely and that her tag is easy to read with your current information, just in case.

2

Update your microchip information! If your cat doesn't already have a microchip, make an appointment with your veterinarian or call your local shelter about microchip clinics. Hopefully you'll never need it, but you don't want your cat potentially lost without one.

3

Put your kitty with her food, water and a litter box in an enclosed area with a visible sign declaring that the cat is inside and must not be allowed out.

4

Prepare in advance. Make sure that you have current, clear photos of your cat ready for lost flyers, just in case.

5

Ask your guests to keep an eye out for your cat during the festivities.
